POPE FRANCIS:

There will be Crosses! It is normal for husband and wife to argue – it's normal. It always happens. But my advice is this: never let the day end without having first made peace. Never! A small gesture is sufficient. Thus the journey may continue. Marriage is a symbol of life, real life – it is not "fiction." It is the sacrament of the love of Christ and the Church, a love which finds its proof and guarantee in the cross. My desire for you is that you have a good journey, a fruitful one, growing in love. I wish you happiness. There will be crosses! But the Lord is always there to help us move forward.

O most merciful God, call back the one who flees, draw back the one who resists, lift up the one who falls, support the one who stands, and accompany the one who walks.

Do not forget those who forget you.

Do not desert those who desert you.

Do not despise those who sin against you.

For in sinning I have offended you, my God;

I have harmed my neighbor;

I have not even spared myself injury.

I abandoned you, Lord. I questioned your goodness by yielding to evil cravings and weakening myself with harmful fears. By such things, I preferred to lose you rather than abandon what I desired, to offend you rather than face what ought not to be feared.

Out of my weakness I beg you to pay heed not to my iniquity, but rather to your immense goodness. And I beg you mercifully to pardon what I have done, granting me sorrow for my past actions and precaution in the future. St. Thomas Aquinas
